

Attain named to Consulting Magazine's 2015 Seven Small Jewels Ranking Management, Strategy, and Technology Consulting Firm Recognized for Compelling Growth

McLean, VA – February 27, 2015 – Attain, LLC, a leading management, strategy, and technology consulting firm, proudly announced today that the firm was named to Consulting Magazine's 2015 Seven Small Jewels ranking.

The publication's annual recognition of "hidden gems" within the consulting industry places Attain in an elite group of firms celebrated for their compelling growth, excellence in client delivery and focus on the talent of their people.

"We are proud to be among the select few consultancies Consulting Magazine has named to its Seven Small Jewels ranking for 2015," says Attain Chairman and CEO Greg Baroni. "This honor is not only a testament to the success of strategy in executing our vision, but also to the hard work and unwavering commitment of our people, who embody Attain's culture of intention – a culture based on seven core values to serve our clients with the best solutions, disciplined execution, and absolute integrity so together we can boldly invent the future," he says.

Attain's Small Jewel recognition follows a year of outstanding revenue growth, geographic expansion, a more than 70 percent increase in the size of its consulting team, as well as the prestigious regional recognition as 2014 finalist in the Greater Washington Government Contractor Awards. The firm also secured strategic contract wins that position it squarely in the growing markets its public sector clients demand.

"The last eighteen months truly validate the vision and strategic path Attain is on," Baroni says. "Our goal is to be an elite consultancy that competes with the largest and most respected consultancies in the profession, and we have the right model and principles to achieve it," he says.
