

The Washington Post Names Attain A Winner of the Greater Washington 2016 Top Workplaces Award

McLean, VA – June 17, 2016 – Attain, LLC, a leading management, technology and strategy consulting firm, has been awarded a 2016 Top Workplaces honor by The Washington Post and will be featured in its special edition on Sunday, June 19.

In its third annual survey, The Washington Post's Top Workplaces list spotlights private, public, nonprofit and government agencies with the highest employee ratings of overall organizational health, including organizational alignment, effective executive, and employee engagement and management. Ratings are gathered and results are compiled by Workplace Dynamics, an independent third party.

"We are thrilled to be recognized as a Top Workplace in Greater Washington by The Post," said Greg Baroni, chairman and CEO of Attain. "Our people are our greatest asset and the driving force behind Attain's success. We are committed to investing in our team and attracting top talent to continue delivering the best transformational services and solutions to our clients."

Since Attain's inception in 2009, the firm has grown fourfold to include more than 400 professionals, and with a nationwide presence, Attain's geographic footprint now includes nearly 200 client or office locations across more than 40 states. The firm's entrepreneurial culture, rooted in seven core values known as The Attain Way, translates into a collaborative work environment that fosters innovation and new ways of thinking, and an unparalleled career path that reinforces success.

"Attain thrives on great ideas and the people who put them into action to achieve truly great outcomes for our clients, colleagues, and the communities in which we live and work," Baroni said.

Recipients of the Top Workplaces award were honored at a celebration on Thursday, June 16 at The Washington Post. To learn more about Attain, visit attain.com, or check out today's Editor's Note on what made this year's winners shine.
