

Salesforce for Higher Education

By harnessing the transformational power of Salesforce, higher education organizations can engage with constituents in new and innovative ways. Whether for recruiting and admissions, student advising and case management or alumni engagement, institutions can leverage the Salesforce platform to improve collaboration, streamline business processes and improve efficiencies. Attain has a proven record of delivering Salesforce solutions tailored to help higher education clients execute against business requirements and realize a rapid return on investment. Specializing in enterprise-scale CRM projects on the Salesforce platform, Attain helps clients realize their objectives and achieve organizational transformation through strategy development, implementation, change management, and managed support.

Attain's Approach

Leveraging a proven and robust methodology developed over more than a decade as a Salesforce partner and more than 600 implementations, Attain offers a demonstrated track record of delivering high quality solutions on time and ahead of expectations. Attain utilizes a user story approach, working with clients to first gather requirements to ensure alignment on objectives, priorities and budget. Implementation is completed in an iterative manner, so that stakeholders can review the solution and provide feedback along the way. This approach ensures continual alignment and provides opportunities to make adjustments so that the resulting solution meets the needs of the client while providing a compelling user experience.
